BOARD OF TRADE TROUBLES.

The San Francisco Chronicle has a somewhat sarcastic article on the State Board of Trade of Nevada. Its allusion to the Journal, however, is not founded on fact. General Powning, former proprietor of the JOURNAL, is now absent in the East, and cannot, therefore, deny the allegation that the JOURNAL was subsidized by the Board of Trade, but we are assured that no part of Mr. Huntington's money was received by the JOURNAL while it was under his management. The present proprietors of the JOURNAL are still emphatic, however, that it never received one dollar or one cent from the Board of Trade since General Powning disposed of the paper, which was on the 31st day of December, 1890. R. L. Fulton, Manager, and A. C. Bragg, Secretary of the Board of Trade, know this to be a fact, and in justice to the JOURNAL should contradict the misstatement of the Chronicle. The bills should show where the money went, and as the Board of Trade is conducted for the benefit of the public, those bills should be subject to the inspection of the members of the Board. Here is what the Chronicle says:

"Some very warm correspondence has been passing between the Nevada State Board of Trade and the Southern Pacific Company during the past few weeks. Last August the railroad company withdrew its support from the Board of Trade. It had been paying $2,400 a year, which was nearly one-half of the Board's total receipts. As a result of the withdrawal there was great consternation among the officers of the Board, who did not and do not yet know where their salaries are to come from. They have been writing to Fourth and Townsend streets, but have received no satisfaction."

"A short time ago the matter was laid before C. P. Huntington. His first question was what had been done with the money already given by the railroad company to the Board. He wanted to see a statement of its accounts for the year. Promptly came back a short row of figures—receipts, so much; expenditures, so much; balance, very small. This would not do. Huntington wanted details from the Nevada. He received details. The Manager and Secretary of the Board sat up late of nights and wove a wonderful fabric of figures that included every postage stamp and the cost of every inkstand and penwiper used by the Board. It covered sheets and sheets of paper, and in its small unitizations it was intended to be a masterpiece of sarcasm. Huntington saw nothing funny in it. He saw that most of the money was spent for officers' salaries and the rest for rent, postal cards, postage and copies of the Reno Journal. He did not like the showing. He sat down and wrote a letter approving of the suspension of the railroad's subscription, and suggesting that the company would probably pay a certain percentage of any amount raised by the people and the corporations of Nevada to advertise their State and advance its interests, but that the company would expect to have access to all the details of expenditure, so as to pass opinion as to their efficiency. Mr. Huntington said he believed that Nevada could be made to surpass Utah in population and wealth, because it has a better climate, a larger area of land and more water for irrigation. Mr. Huntington proffered the assurance of his interest in the welfare of the State, but he felt that something more was due from its citizens for its advancement. He did not feel that the money paid had been used to the best advantage in all cases, and thought that the subscription was not as general in nature as it should be.

W. H. Mills, under instructions from Mr. Huntington, has written a letter to Manager Fulton of the board asking him to ascertain what the citizens are willing to do. If they will come forward and assist in making up a good subscription the railroad will add its mite, and the officers will be able to draw their salaries and all will be well again in the Sagebrush State.

ENLIGHTENING THE PEOPLE.

The present Congress is adopting measures to enlighten the public on the tariff question. The House Committee on Agriculture has been directed by resolution to report the effect of the present tariff law on agricultural interests.

Congressman Caminette of California has offered two resolutions, one of which instructs the Committee on Mines and Mining to inquire into the effect of the present tariff upon the gold and silver mining industry, and the other directs the same Committee to investigate the comparative rates of wages paid protected and unprotected miners.

The Agricultural and Mining Committees are composed of fifteen members each, Democrats, Republicans and Alliance. They will ascertain from farmers and miners direct, the effect of the tariff on those industries. If they are benefited by the McKinley bill, then, of course, every farmer and miner in the country should uphold that Act, and if they are not, they should demand its repeal.

Mr. Caminette asserts that the gold and silver miners are not only unprotected, but that the price of everything they use is enhanced by the tariff, and cites as an instance that California quicksilver, which is used in producing gold and silver, is sold cheaper in Mexico than it is at the quicksilver mines in California. He also contends that a comparison of the wages of protected and unprotected miners will show the absurdity of the claim that a high tariff increases the reward of labor. In proof of this he refers to the sixty cents a day earned by the Hungarian in a protected Pennsylvania coal mining town, gorged with wealth and compares it with the four dollars a day earned by the employees of an unprotected silver mining company in Nevada.

The investigation of the Committee on Agriculture it is claimed, will show that farming implements exported from the United States, are sold in foreign countries at less prices than at the factories where they are made, that everything he has to buy is enhanced in price by protection, while nothing he produces is protected.

These investigations will tend to educate the people on subjects which concern everybody, regardless of politics, and if they show that high tariff or prohibitory tariff is better for the country, than a tariff for revenue, with incidental protection, then there should be no disagreement on that point, while on the other hand if it appears that the present tariff benefits a few at the expense of the many, then the many should see in the next election that the wrong is righted.

$50,000 A YEAR.

John A. McCall, Elected President of the New York Life.

Mr. McCall has Comptroller of the Equitable, has begun his duties as President of the New York Life Insurance Company. He has been one of the foremost insurance men of New York for several years. Born in Albany in 1849, he received his education in a commercial college there. His first insurance work was as book-keeper in the Albany agency of the Connecticut Insurance Company at a salary of less than $1,000. He received a clerkship in the State Insurance Department in 1870. In 1870 he was made deputy Superintendent. He served as deputy until 1883, when Gov. Cleveland appointed him Superintendent. He refused a reappointment offered to him by Gov. Hill and went into the Equitable as comptroller.

POOR JONATHAN."

The History and Plot of the Opera Comedie Comique Opera Company will sing the great New York "Casino" success "Poor Jonathan," at McKissick's Opera House to-night, Saturday February 20th. "Poor Jonathan" was written by Carl Millescoff, the composer of "The Black Hussar," "The Beggar Student" and other comic operas, about two years ago at the suggestion of Mr. Comedie, who was then visiting Vienna. Mr. Comedie wanted something novel, different from the general run of comic operas, and the idea struck him that one with an American subject, devoid of the picturesque and gorgeous costuming, which is considered the necessary adjunct of a comic opera, would take in America. No sooner said than done, and "Poor Jonathan" was the outcome. Either Carl Millescoff became very much Americanized, or Mr. Comedie conveyed to him his idea in a very complete form, for it must be admitted that the production is penetrated with the flavor of Americanism.

The plot is infinitely amusing and interesting. New York is the scene of action "Rubygold," a bonanza king, luckless in his suit for the fair "Harriet," and weary of supporting the responsibilities of his vast wealth, transfers it all to Jonathan Trip, his cook. Poor "Jonathan" takes every advantage of his position, and here is where some of the most excellent morals of the opera are developed. Finally, true love conquers, and "Harriet" and "Rubygold" coming together, Jonathan and the latter arrange the wealth, and all goes merrily on.

A Fireproof Solution for Dresses. A chemist of Vienna has succeeded in discovering a composition which will make even the slight material of ballet dancers' dresses fireproof. The Prince of Lichtenstein gave this composition a first trial on the stage in his own palace in the presence of a numerous company. The size of the curtain discovered two life-sized dolls, dressed as ballet girls, to both of which a light was applied. One of the dolls was rapidly reduced to ashes, while the other, well saturated with the protective composition, escaped with a small hole in her dress.

He Dreamed Wrong.

Pierre Ruan, an aged banker of Paris, had a prophetic dream a few years ago which told him that he would live until the year 1902. He was so firm in the belief that the dream was correct that he had a monument erected with his name, age and date, 1902, cut upon it. The old man has just died and the marble cutter had another Pierre Ruan inscription and date put on.—St. Louis Republic.

Unsuccessful Attempt at Train Wrecking.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal., February 19.—As the south-bound passenger train on the Southern Pacific Railroad was nearing Poos last night and about three miles north of the station, the engineer saw by the headlight a queer looking object laying near the right hand rail. He was so close to the obstruction that it would have been impossible to stop the train in time to avoid striking it, even if it had been of sufficient size to look dangerous. As it was very insignificant in appearance he paid little attention to it. When the driving wheels of the locomotive passed over the object there was a terrific explosion and the cab was enveloped in a sheet of flame. Fortunately the engine was a heavy one and held to the rails, while the momentum of the train carried it quickly over the spot. As soon as possible the engineer slowed down, not with the intention of coming to a full stop, for that was undoubtedly the object of the parties who had fastened the explosive to the rail, but he wanted to be sure no serious damage had been done to his engine. When the train had slowed down the engineer got down on the steps and was astounded to find the brake beams on the engine and express trucks to be on fire. The flames were extinguished, and a cuy of train robbery ran like wild fire through the crowded coach and there was a scene of intense excitement for some time. At Poos the officers were notified and at once left for the scene of the explosion. The posse has not been heard from yet.

The Behring Sea Controversy.

WASHINGTON, February 19.—The Behring sea controversy was the principal topic of discussion to-day at the Cabinet meeting. There is no change in the situation and none is looked for until Salisbury acts on the treaty of arbitration. A draft of which was drawn on lines understood to be equally acceptable to both. Government was submitted to him early this week. In order to get the treaty before the Senate as soon as possible, it was arranged that Lord Salisbury should communicate the action by cable. So far nothing has been heard from him. The policy of this Government with regard to the coming sealing season will depend largely on the action of the British Government on the question of arbitration.

The President has issued a proclamation against poaching in Behring sea, which is almost identical with the one issued last year.

Senate Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, February 19.—The bill to provide for a permanent system of highways in the District of Columbia outside of Washington, was taken up, and a provision authorizing the issue of three per cent bonds, gave rise to a debate in which the financial policy of the Government was discussed at great length.

Berry of Arkansas in the course of his remarks declared: "We have arrived at that condition that the United States cannot pay the ordinary expenses of the Government and meet interest on the debt without borrowing money."

No action was taken on the bill and the Senate adjourned till Tuesday.

House Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, February 19.—Lind of Minnesota asked Harter if the principles of the Democratic party were for free trade and a single gold standard.

The Democrats tried to shut Harter off, but he insisted on replying, and said the Democratic party favored a double standard, and every American citizen is entitled to absolute free trade with every inhabitant of the globe, limited only by the amount of tariff necessary to conduct the government.

Without action on the Duncan bill, the House adjourned till Tuesday.

The Nevada State Association of Civil Engineers and Surveyors meets to-day in Carson City in the office of the Surveyor General. Several members from Reno will be in attendance. The Association was formed about a year and a half ago, this being the third annual meeting. The present officers are J. E. Jones, President, and Fred Hellman of Virginia City, Secretary.

Last evening as a sprightly member of the demi monde was zig-zagging her way down Virginia street she passed a group of men standing on the sidewalk, when one of them made a remark, complimentary or otherwise, to which she took exception. Feeling in a pugilistic mood, she started in for gore. She failed in quenching her thirst for blood, but succeeded in a very short time in drawing a crowd around her that would have made John L. envious to become the central figure therefrom, but to her sorrow there were officers among the gathering. They quietly enveloped her with the sheltering wing of peace and order, and she was left to reflect upon her misdeeds in the all pervading darkness and silence of the cooler.

FOSTER'S WEATHER FORECASTS.

An Early Spring and Dry Summer. Copyrighted 1892 by W. T. Foster.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Feb. 19.—My last letter gave forecasts of the weather for the storm wave due to cross the continent from 18th to 21st, and the cool wave to cross the continent from 19th to 23d. The next disturbance will reach the Pacific coast about the 22d, cross the western mountains by the close of the 23d, the great central valleys from 24th to 26th, and reach the Atlantic States about the 27th.

This will be an average storm, and its force will rapidly increase on the 27th and 28th, as it moves out into the Atlantic ocean.

The cool wave following it will cross the western mountains about the 27th, the great central valleys about the 29th, and the Atlantic States about the 29th. It will extend far into the Southern States, causing frosts that will do some damage.

AN EARLY SPRING

May be expected. March and the first part of April will be very favorable to growing crops. But during the later growing season, rainfall will be deficient in many places; so much so that, in various localities, the crops of 1892 will be short.

Owing to the speculators' rings in New York and other great central trade centers, cotton is ruinously low. The crop, for the purpose of speculation, has been largely overestimated.

If the planters could hold their cotton, produced last year, I am confident that they would get a good price for it in the Fall, for I have no doubt that a short crop will be produced this year.

The Government fails in its duty when it fails to protect all classes of its citizens from the ravages of cormorants who prevent the laws of supply and demand from regulating prices.

DROUGHTS AND THEIR REMEDIES.

There are two reasons why this is an opportune time for discussing droughts. One is that the time approaches for tree planting, and the other is the prospect of a deficiency of rainfall this year in parts of the United States.

I have discussed the influence of the arid districts on the droughts of the great central valleys, the influence of trees, cultivated on the plains, in restoring those arid countries to fertility, and the next step calls for a discussion of the natural forests of the western mountains.

The legends of the Aztecs tell us that those people, when occupying the western mountains, with their center of population about Great Salt Lake in Utah, including the Colorado River Valley and the table lands between the Rockies and the Sierras, destroyed the timber, from the effects of which the lakes and rivers dried up, and those people were compelled to abandon the table land of Asia, now called the Desert of Gobi, from the same causes.

The Aztecs removed to Mexico, and were so impressed with the cause of the blight in that country from which they migrated, that they enacted stringent laws protecting the timber in Mexico.

It is also well known that since white men occupied the great basin of the Salt Lake country, the growth of trees has been encouraged by Mormon laws, from the effects of which Great Salt Lake has increased seven or eight feet in depth.

DESTRUCTION OF FORESTS.

The particular point to which I desire to direct attention is this: The timber on both sides of the Rocky Mountains is being rapidly destroyed. This will dry up all the streams that enter the Missouri river from the west.

With the streams that flow eastward out of the Rocky Mountains dried up, there will be no water for irrigation, and this will not prevent tree planting on the plains, but will destroy great tracts of rich farming lands now under cultivation near the foothills of the Rockies.

It requires but moderate reasoning facilities to discern great increases of the droughts in the great central valleys, including all the country of the great lakes, unless the destruction of timber in the Rockies and Sierras and their great plateaus is stopped.

ENCOURAGE TREE PLANTING.

Every person who owns a lot, an acre or a farm, can do something toward retarding the encroachments of dryth by planting trees, for every tree is an armed soldier standing sentinel and doing battle against that great enemy, whose fiendish design ever is to cover up fertile lands with drifting sands, turning them into withering deserts.

If every such owner of land will cause one tree to grow where none grew before, repeating the good work every year, the droughts will be driven back and the present fertile country protected from the desert sands.

Children could be taught the value of trees and the wickedness of wantonly destroying them. By trees I mean all kinds and sizes, from the hazel twig to the monarch of the forest. Protect all the trees and plant more. Cultivate those that will pay best for food, furniture or building purposes.

When Arbor Day comes devote your time to tree planting, and as it approaches, hold meetings for the purpose of discussing the subject and enthusing your neighbors with its importance. Every debating society, farmers' organization and Board of Trade should at least give one meeting to the discussion of this subject between this and Arbor Day, and on that day there should be thousands of speeches made.

Preachers can find pertinent texts, especially in the Old Testament, from which to discuss this subject.

Our people do not realize the danger there is in destroying our forests and increasing the amount of cultivated lands without largely increasing the cultivation of groves. Get ready to plant trees.

Royal Baking Powder Has no Equal.

The United States Official Report

Of the Government Baking Powder tests recently made, under authority of Congress, by the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., furnishes the highest authoritative information as to which powder is the best. The Official Report shows the ROYAL superior to all others in leavening power; a cream of tartar powder of highest quality.

The Canadian Tests:

"The strength of the Royal is shown to be 23 per cent. greater than any other.

"As a result of my investigations I find the Royal Baking Powder far superior to the others. It is pure, contains none but wholesome ingredients, and is of greatest strength.

LAID TO REST.

THE RIO GRAND WESTERN.
A Road That Will Probably Be Built Through Nevada.

The funeral of the late Charles D. Williams took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from Trinity Church. The impressive ritual services were conducted by the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, of which deceased was a member. A large concourse of people were in attendance, including nearly every printer in Reno. Very beautiful were the floral tributes. The gift of Amity Lodge to the dead comrade was a triangle of red, yellow and blue, and an anchor and cross of roses and camellias. Another was a large floral screen with an arch above it which bore the words in violets: "His Proof Was Clean," and a star with the figure "30," which signifies "the end." At the base of the screen there was a pillow of white flowers with the words "JOURNAL" and "Gazette" on it. Henry Higgins sent a beautiful cross of white blossoms.

The funeral march was led by the Knights, first being Wadsworth Lodge, Captain C. Wallstab, and Sir Knights W. H. A. Pike, A. Steele, W. F. Brown, G. A. Macpherson, R. Arthur, A. Arthur, J. A. Goldie, A. C. Webb, J. C. Walker, W. E. Lampson, E. C. Lathrop, W. E. Cobb, F. V. Walstrom, A. J. Buckland, J. F. George, J. C. Erb and C. D. Hormann, and the Reno Lodge with twenty Knights under command of Captain S. J. Hodgson. After the Knights came twelve printers, composers employed in the two newspaper offices of Reno. The pall bearers were W. Noyes and George Mosher of Reno Division, No. 2, Uniform Rank, C. A. Jones and J. A. Zeigler of Amity Lodge, No. 8, A. E. Wright of the Gazette and William Webster of the JOURNAL.

UP THE RIVER.

Notes From Floriston and Vicinity.
FLORISTON, February 19, 1892.

There are rumors of changes along the river, how true I am not able to state, but the National Ice Company intend building another mammoth ice house as soon as the timber can be got on the grounds.

This company has some 12,000 tons of ice ready for shipment, and they will commence shipping from here on March 1st. From the present outlook there will be a great many men employed in this immediate vicinity this season.

S. H. Simonds is at present in San Francisco arranging to commence work on the hotel as soon as the weather will permit.

It is rumored that there will be a large hotel and store erected at Cuba this summer and some changes made in the management of the ice houses there.

A. McKay, better known as "Red," is doing San Francisco for a month's pleasure.

D. M. Dysart and wife are at Pacific Grove on a pleasure trip.

L. W. Cowles of Oakland, one of the boys who went out on the strike on account of the "affidavit," is doing night duty here in place of F. H. Peacock, who resigned.

B. MONTGOMERY DISTRICT.

The Mining Camp Almost Depopulated. Montgomery District, or Breyfogel, as it is sometimes called in the southern part of Nye county, near the California line, of which high hopes were entertained a year ago, has proved a failure. C. R. Glass, formerly in the Surveyor General's office here, was among the first persons attracted to Montgomery by the reported richness of the mines. He now writes the JOURNAL that owing to mismanagement that is almost criminal, and by false representation, Montgomery and his high rolling aids have caused much hardship and suffering to the unfortunate who were attracted to the district by the glowing accounts given of the mines.

Mr. Glass thinks the principal mine, that first discovered, is good and that any other person than Montgomery would have had great difficulty in not making it pay. Now the district is almost abandoned and as it is remote from the railroads many of those who went there have had to undergo privations and sufferings.

"I have been afflicted with biliousness and constipation for fifteen years; Stomach pain was suggested to me and tried but to no purpose. At last a friend recommended August Flower. I took it according to directions and its effects were wonderful, relieving me of those disagreeable stomach pains which I had been troubled with so long. Words cannot describe the admiration in which I hold your August Flower—it has given me a new lease of life, which before was a burden. Hunting Party.

On the Monday following Christmas two women were noticed in one of the large stores strolling along in front of the bric-a-brac counter, picking up, examining and pricing with true anteholiday indecision and effort. "Poor women," thought the observer, "they are still possessed by the troubled spirit of Christmas shopping," but a nearer approach showed the falsity of the impression. One of them was saying to her companion, "I'll take this vase, which with the letter basket and that pair of bottles makes three toward next year's list. What a saving of money and strength to buy presents a year ahead! I made up my mind last week I should never be caught in the dreadful toils of such a situation as that in which I was placed by the rain of Thursday. I shall not stop today until at least a dozen of 1892's presents are selected." Which is certainly taking Santa Claus very decidedly by the forelock.—Her Point of View in New York Times.

Archduke Joseph and the Gypsies.

On being appealed to some time ago by the Archduke Joseph, the Austrian emperor gave him permission to act with regard to the gypsies in Hungary as he thought best. The archduke, who is the friend of these wild people, founded the colony of Tsigan, in the neighborhood of his estate of Alosuth. He built them sixty small houses for sixty families and made them apply their energies to agriculture and the trades. He named a youth of twenty—strong, tall and handsome—as their "voivode," and selected a pretty girl for his wife.

After a course of religious instruction the pair were christened, and a few days ago their marriage took place in the Church of Alosuth. The archduke and his managers were the witnesses. The archduke wore the dress of a gypsy "voivode," and, according to Romany custom, carried a tall bamboo staff, with an enormous nosegay and some brilliant drapery.—London News.

Captured a Wildcat.

An old hunter set a trap some days ago at the falls at the lower end of the Warm Springs valley, Va. Next morning he found in it the remains of a groundhog, partially devoured. Staking what was left of the hog, and setting his trap near by, he returned the next morning to find that he had captured an immense wildcat. By a little maneuvering his daughter, who had accompanied him, slipped a collar around the cat's neck, and the old gentleman now has his lordship safely chained at home.—Washington Post.

Wooden Ships Still in Favor.

The arrival of two well built clipper ships in New York, after a race from San Francisco, calls attention to the fact that wooden ships are no longer in disfavor on long voyages, but have in some instances displaced their iron rivals. This is an encouraging outlook for the United States, because in the past the fastest clipper ships have been built in this country, and a general return to wooden ships for long ocean voyages might result in a boom in the shipbuilding business in New England and elsewhere.—London News.

How a Husband Should be Regarded.

At a recent meeting of Haresis, at which the subject of "Husband" was discussed, Mrs. Herrick attributed the failure of marital happiness to girls being taught to expect too much happiness from marriage, and that love is only essential by romances, poetry, songs and tradition. But, while not belittling love, she claimed that respect based upon superior qualities; esteem for those attributes that would make the wife desire the husband as a friend if she could not have him for her husband; common sense, which teaches her that a faulty woman need not expect a perfect husband, and great patience—"that passion of noble souls"—are quite as essential elements in the domestic bliss.

She cautioned the wife against holding up her soul to her husband always
